

Elements Preschool

Connecting children with nature

Elements Preschool philosophy is inspired by the forest school model and is based on the belief that bringing children into nature helps them learn in a self-guided manner, and enables them to flourish as creative and innovative initiators, responsible adventurers, and playful, collaborative thinkers

September 2015 onwards Elements Preschool will replace the Lower East Side Montessori. The school has bright, airy classrooms & a large backyard that will be converted into a space rich with natural elements for nature play. Landscaping starts April & we invite parents to visit, see our plans & discover the benefits of learning not just in but also from nature
